

A Society Based Upon Natural Law?

A society that neglects the crucial spiritual needs of its citizens, and that is incapable of celebrating the transcendent foundation of reality, is a society that is inherently dysfunctional, and that has consequently failed its citizens. A Natural Law government would overtly acknowledge and celebrate the Transcendent as the very foundation upon which all government must be based, and as the primary source of legitimacy of any and all governmental authority.

Dharma Nation Movement
The Third Alternative

Find Out More
www.dharmanation.org

A Society Based Upon Natural Law?

A society that neglects the crucial spiritual needs of its citizens, and that is incapable of celebrating the transcendent foundation of reality, is a society that is inherently dysfunctional, and that has consequently failed its citizens. A Natural Law government would overtly acknowledge and celebrate the Transcendent as the very foundation upon which all government must be based, and as the primary source of legitimacy of any and all governmental authority.

Dharma Nation Movement
The Third Alternative

Find Out More
www.dharmanation.org